Research interest.

SDGs, corporate governance, ESGs, strategic management, innovation, AI, higher education, social media, blockchain, Big Data, emerging markets.

Special research interest.

Research on marginalized populations seeks to address the unique challenges and systemic barriers faced by underserved communities, including those defined by socioeconomic status, ethnicity, gender, disability, and geographic location. By focusing on critical areas such as access to healthcare, education, economic opportunities, and social justice, this research aims to highlight inequities, propose evidence-based interventions, and foster inclusive policy changes. Funding for this research is essential to generate data-driven insights that not only empower marginalized communities but also support sustainable development and promote equity on a broader scale.

Teaching interest.

Sustainable business and innovation, sustainability in business, environmental communication in business, strategic management, financial management, strategic financial management, cross-cultural management, and business in emerging markets.
